The Evolution Continues...

Axelent's commitment to quality and innovation marks us the first to launch machine guards with rounded corners – X-GUARD© Contour

ORLAND PARK, IL, October 1, 2012 —

As we continuously adapt our machine guards and other products to the requirements and requests of our customers, we push the limits of excellence with yet another quality product for you.

In today's market, delivering machine guards that comply with all safety and function requirements and directives is crucial. We at Axelent integrate speed and intelligent solutions to our products to differentiate us as a supplier and to build our brand.

The industry has previously only focused on function and not form. The guard has only been seen as a necessity. With a typical manufacturing process that is adapted to a specific product form, it makes it easy to become complacent.

We at Axelent are forward thinkers and innovators. We never settle for acceptable and are always driving for exceptional. We strive to continuously develop our core products and find new perspectives outside of the norm.

With that, we welcome X-GUARD© Contour to the marketplace.
